Free Yourself from Chronic Pain

Pain that is not effectively managed can worsen, causing discomfort and loss of mobility. It can cause you to miss out on events and gatherings because you can't get around or sit with the pain. By taking care of your back pain early on, you can improve your mobility and manage the pain before it becomes a chronic problem.

Take Back Your Life

Gardening can wreak havoc on your back. This simple activity involves big ranges of motion and some leaning, crouching, squatting, bending, and twisting. With a weak lower back or core, these movements are instantly felt in your shoulders and lower back.

But Arc Pro can help. This at-home therapy is a safe way to relieve lower back pain and get you back on your feet.

The best back pain treatments are those that heal your back while treating the symptoms.

The Arc Pro Lumbar Traction device provides instant relief from your back pain. This device strengthens your back as it heals, helping to prevent future problems. Let us give you the freedom to live your life as you please.

Arc Pro uses heat therapy, vibrating massage, infrared light therapy, and spinal traction to stretch, massage, and relax your back. It takes pressure off your spine and nerves so your back can mend on its own, without jumping straight to medical attention or surgery.

Backed by Scientific Research

Dynamic traction has been backed by scientific research and shown to be an effective lower back therapy. Unlike postural correction devices, dynamic traction slowly moves your spine into the correct position. It then teaches your muscles how to keep your spine in place and heals the surrounding tissues.

Discover what it's like to live without:

- Lower back pain
- Limited mobility
- Postural issues
- Joint pain
- Tissue damage
- Pinched nerves

Clinical Techniques in Your Home

The Arc Pro Lumbar Traction device uses clinical techniques to correct and relieve your back issues right in your home. It alleviates your back pain and strengthens your muscles while you heal. These processes are the same techniques a physical therapist would use.

Dynamic Traction

Rhythmic traction moves your spine until it sits at its optimal curve. The device pushes your waist up and down until your spine falls into place. This increases blood flow in your lower back and allows nourishing nutrients to reach the area. The nutrients mend and strengthen your body.

Electric Pulse Therapy

Short bursts of electricity are sent into your muscles, relaxing them and releasing the tension from your body. This stops your muscles from pulling your spine back out of place.

Vibration

Vibrating massages have been proven to relax your muscles and promote blood circulation. This allows the healing of inflamed muscles and joints and increases mobility.

Heat Therapy

Adjustable heat settings allow for heat therapy to ease the tension in your back and eliminate soreness and muscle fatigue.

Infrared Light Therapy

This light reaches deep into your tissues, initiating cellular repair and replication to eliminate back tension and strengthen your back muscles.

Magnetic Therapy

With magnets set beneath your spine, your blood vessels open, promoting better blood flow and decreasing inflammation around the spine.
